Introduction

This is a revised guide to the records for closed Episcopal churches in the State of Minnesota. This would include the Diocese of Minnesota and the Diocese of Duluth, formed from the Diocese of Minnesota and after 1944 reunited with the Diocese of Minnesota. This guide is the result of the, Episcopal Vital Records Project: Minnesota; started years ago to locate the records for closed Episcopal Churches in Minnesota. In the process of searching it was discovered that the records were very scattered and a finding guide was also needed. Because this is a preliminary guide it will continue to be updated and new information added as discovered. The Guide is made up of a listing all the known closed churches in the State. The term Church is used here to include any of the Parish, Missions and named Preaching stations throughout the state. The Annual Journal for the Diocese usually contains a listing of all the current Parishes, Missions and Preaching Stations active for that year. This list is a guide to what could or should be available or was found during initial phase. Several Churches are listed but noted that no records have been found, they are known to have records of some kind but they have not been discovered yet. The main source for this Guide is the Minnesota Historical Society Library and Archives and the Archives of the Episcopal Diocese of Minnesota. The Parish / Mission records in the Archives of the Diocese have been through 2010 transferred to the Minnesota Historical Society. The Minnesota Historical Society has for many years been the repository for the Diocese of Minnesota. In addition a number of local church records have been found in the research collection of County Historical Societies, these are noted as such. The Diocese of Minnesota has also deposited some of the out state local church records in the Regional Research Centers located on the Campus of the U of M Duluth and the State Universities campus at Marshall.

The guide is by name of the Town and County where the Episcopal Church was located. The name of the church is given and followed by a list of the known records available for that Church and the years covered. The entry is completed with some NOTES with information on the location of the records and any other points of interest on that Church. Some records have been microfilmed and are also available at the Minnesota Historical Society and the Regional History Research Centers. Not all the churches in this Guide are closed Churches, but included because some or all of their records have been microfilmed by the Minnesota Historical Society, and are are available through a Public library on interlibrary loan use.

Each entry contains a listing of the records discovered for that Church that contain a range of materials of interest to the Genealogist and Historian. The most important record is the Parish Register. These volumes contain the list of vital records of the Church; Baptisms, Marriages and Burials. Also included are the Communicants list and list of Confirmations for that Church. Other records that may be found are the Vestry/ Bishop Committee Minute Books, Treasurer Books and the Women’s Guild Minutes and Records. An additional collection of volumes titled Register of Church Services contains little information except for a list of services held by date etc.

The Guide is a listing of the known Parish records available at this time for each Church listed. Many records are still missing and misplaced, or lost over the years. The search will continue and hope that additional materials will be discovered and listed in later edition.

Finding your Ancestors in the records of the Episcopal Church in Minnesota can provide some unique challenges. The Minnesota Episcopal records date back to the early 1830’s and Fort Snelling. The Episcopal Diocese of Minnesota was established in 1857 the first Bishop was elected in 1858.

The wealth of information for the genealogist can be found in the vital records compiled by and for the local church. The records of baptism, burials and marriages can usually be found in the church where the event took place. In some cases the records of baptisms are recorded in the Parish Register where the clergy resided. The records could possibly be recorded in two different Parish Registers. To find these records you need to locate the appropriate church and area to start your search. In some cases the church has closed and the records have been transferred to the Diocese or some public archives. The Researcher needs to discover by a process of elimination what parish your ancestors were associated with. If the Parish is still an active one you will need to obtain their current mailing address.

The Parish Records that would be of assistance are as follows, providing they are available. Not all the Churches listed in this guide have records available, and your search needs to widen to nearby Episcopal Churches.

THE PARISH REGISTER contains:

Baptisms: these contain the date of Baptisms, and location; date and place of birth, parent’s name, and sponsors names and clergy name

Burials: contain dates of death, date of funeral and place, date of birth, some times parents or spouses names, place of burial (cemetery) and clergy who had the burial service.

Confirmation List: List of members confirmed, age and date of confirmation

Communicant’s Lists and List of Members: A list of members of the church, usually in family groups, with names, ages and information on each member. With information on arrival and departures from the Parish, some information on marriages, deaths and other notes on individuals. These can provide some good clues for the researcher.

Marriage Register: Names the Bride and Groom, their age and residence, names of parents, date of marriage, witnesses and Clergy name

These are the main records used by the genealogist but other records may be available that could be of interest also. This would include:

Minute Books for the Vestry / Bishop Committee Minutes of the church Board meetings and actions taken. A valuable historical record of the church and not containing much of any great genealogical value. Smaller churches may be of more interest and contain more information on individuals.

Parish Treasurer Books and Ledgers: These are mainly financial records that have little genealogical information but as a last resort might be helpful.

Women’s Guild Books; These are mainly minutes of meetings and financial records for the women’s groups in the church. They are of historical interest but not much genealogical details. A series of volumes titled Register of Services is strictly a log of services held in the church containing date and numbers for the annual Diocesan Reports. Of limited value to the genealogist but may be of interest to the historian.

The entries marked with the cross indicate that this Parish has/ had a Cemetery associated with it. Some have had all the stones copied and others are pending.

When searching for ancestors always keep in mind that some of smaller Missions and Preaching Stations did not have a resident clergy, but depended on clergy from a larger more established neighboring Parish. The services and any vital records could be recorded in the Clergy’s resident Parish. Always be willing to expand ones search in a wider circle as needed. The larger Parishes may have records of baptisms, marriages and burials from a number of area smaller towns. Sometimes the search will require reading several different Parish records to complete your search.

A part of the Episcopal Church, Diocese of Minnesota collection at the Minnesota Historical Society is the George Clinton Tanner Papers. The Rev Tanner served as register of the diocese (diocesan historian) from 1878 through 1920. The Tanner Papers consist largely of notes, manuscripts and transcripts relating to the 19th Century diocesan and Parish history. The list is organized alphabetically by name of the Community and by Parish. The individual parish files consist of largely Tanner’s notes, correspondence, printed matter and in some cases transcripts of local records. The files contain a wide ranging wealth of information on each Parish and community. A note “Tanner Papers - M H S” indicated there is a file on this parish in the George Clinton Tanner Papers at the Minnesota Historical Society Library.

The researcher, either the Genealogist or Historian should also need to read the following two volumes for a history of the first 100 years of the Diocese. First is: Fifty Years of Church Work in the Diocese of Minnesota 1857-1907; by Rev George C. Tanner; 1909 and The Second Fifty Years, The Diocese of Minnesota and the Diocese of Duluth from 1907 to 1957; by Rev E.L. Sheppard; 1972. The Minnesota Historical Society Library also has a complete file of the Diocesan Journals for both the Diocese of Minnesota (1857-2010) and the Diocese of Duluth (1895-1944). The Diocesan Journals contain a wealth of information on the Church in Minnesota and may be helpful in finding possible locations of a church.

An additional secondary source at the Minnesota Historical Society is the Periodical collections for the Diocese of Minnesota and Diocese of Duluth. The Diocese of Minnesota periodicals are under several titles over the years from 1877 through 1958. The Diocese of Duluth’s The Duluth Churchman covers the period from 1907 through 1940’s when they reunited with the Diocese of Minnesota. The Minnesota Historical Society has the most complete file of these periodicals that I am aware of. Many of the individual issues contain short articles or notices on many of the Churches and their activities.
